Celebrating Masters of Ceramic Craft

The Pottery studio/Gallery is conveniently situated on the Lakeview Service Road, along side the number 1 highway on the outskirts of Moose Jaw, Sask.

Zach Dietrich is a graduate of the University of Regina. He then attended pottery classes at the University of Regina Extension Department for two years. There he studied with Mel Bolen and Don Chester before moving to Endeavour with Wendy Parsons and setting up a pottery studio. At Endeavour they built and fired a wood burning kiln. In 1980 they moved to Moose Jaw where they bought a little church for a studio/gallery and built a gas fired kiln.

Wendy Parsons holds a Fine Arts degree from the University of Regina and a Masters degree in Museum Studies from the University of Leicester, U.K. She has been the Resident Artist for both the cities of Weyburn and Moose Jaw. Wendy has worked for the Moose Jaw Museum & Art Gallery as the education co-ordinator and the Organization of Saskatchewan Arts Councils.

Devon Dietrich, the son of Zach and Wendy, holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Computer Science from the University of Saskatchewan. He specializes in handbuilding pieces and has developed unique designs.

Wendy and Zach are co-owners of Parsons Dietrich Pottery where they have a studio and gallery. They have built a gas fired kiln and a Cooperative wood fired kiln on their property.
