Celebrating Masters of Ceramic Craft

I started pottery classes 25 years ago at the Parkland Potters Guild in Stony Plain, AB with my sister Tammy Parks-Legge Pottery. Since then I was a lawyer and worked in Aboriginal policy and negotiations in BC and NB. Pottery classes were always one of my go to stress relievers to get out of my head about work! When I felt burned out I transitioned part-time into the New Brunswick College of Craft & Design(NBCCD) Ceramics program! While at NBCCD I focused on Cone 10 firing as I loved the gas kiln results. When I left NBCCD and was staring at my electric kiln, wondering what line I would sell, I went to Plainsman, as it was the clay I knew from AB! The immense information you have on digitalfire was the post-'graduate' course I needed for electric firing! Sial in Montreal provides excellent customer service to us New Brunswicker's and I am always telling potter's out east about Plainsman!
